

Statement against Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

This statement is made in relation to Section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Astute Electronics Ltd, (“Astute”) is a distributor of electronic components, products and logistical services, utilising trusted and dynamic supply partners globally. Astute, together with its International subsidiary offices, is committed to conducting business ethically and upholding basic human rights throughout its operations.

Astute does not tolerate the use of human trafficking, modern slavery or child labour in its operations nor supply chain.

Astute encourages employees and suppliers to report any suspected human trafficking-related activity. We will never knowingly do business with customers, suppliers or any other business partners who do not comply with our standards and expectations.

Through our Quality and Compliance departments and using our standard Terms and Conditions of Purchase which define the requirements, Astute insists its suppliers and their third-party supply chains comply with international ethical standards.
